Council Calls Parley On City Law Enforcement

Crackdown Evident As Charges Fly

Civil Service Unit Called To Meet

In an effort to crack down on law enforcement in Circleville, a meeting of top city officials has been called for Aug. 13, to discuss the situation and help clarify the duties of municipal employees.

City council agreed to the meeting Tuesday night after being besieged with various ordinance violations reportedly that "have become hazards to the public."

The meeting will be called with councilmen to sit as a committee. Others to be invited are Mayor Thurman I. Miller, Safety Director John Bolender, Police Chief William F. McCrady and the civil service commission—Haley Greeno, Vernon Hawkes and E. L. Tolbert.

Agreement on the meeting came after Dr. Edwin L. Montgomery made a lengthy appeal to his fellow councilmen to take some action on speeding violations in the city.

Councilman Montgomery said, "If the police don't back us up on the laws we pass then we're nothing but a bunch of impotent ordinance-passers."

He emphasized the inconvenience of such violations were causing a Court street woman to sell her property because she is unable to safely cross the street. "We have one man in charge of enforcing those laws," Montgomery stated, "and he is the chief of police."

This was the second time of the evening Chief McCrady was called down by councilmen for allegedly failing to carry out his duties.

Boyd Horn supported Montgomery in his effort to get results from city officials by declaring the police should make some arrests.

Mayor Thurman I. Miller told

Lights, Sewers Asked Of Council At Tuesday Meet

A string of committee reports and suggestions were taken under consideration Tuesday night by Circleville city council, all of which dealt with improving conditions in the city.

Ray Anderson, chairman of the service committee, recommended a street light be placed on Rosewood avenue near Ted Lewis park and on the corner of the alley exit from Rosewood avenue. A third light was recommended for Kroger alley.

In reply to a request for an extension of sewers in the north end of town by Frank Pump of Chillicothe, Anderson said his committee favored waiting until construction on homes in the new addition begins before the city takes any action.

The city was asked to extend its sewage lines about 75 feet from an adjoining alley into the center of Wilson avenue near where the 18 new homes are expected to be constructed.

COUNCIL also directed Solicitor George Gerhardt to write to offices of the Norfolk and Western Railway to send a representative to answer city questions

Red Blockade Seen Backfiring

BERLIN, Aug. 4—The Russian blockade of Berlin appeared to be backfiring today with serious effects on the Soviet zone's economy.

The Russian zone was afflicted with power failures, railroad train wrecks, factory shutdowns, and strikes—all attributed to Western retaliation to the Soviet blockade.

At the same time, the American-licensed newspaper Tagesspiegel reported that 207 Russian zone firms have closed down, and another 371 have cut their working hours because of the shortage of raw materials usually obtained from the Western zones.

OPTION CALLED 'UNDESIRABLE'

Northenders File Protest To Purchase Of Property

Circleville board of education's attempt to purchase land for a new northend elementary school and athletic field hit a snag Tuesday night.

Appearing before the board was a committee objecting to the board's $12,000 option on 15 acres of land known as the Zwicker estate.

Backed by a 17-point petition signed by 28 persons, the committee claimed the optioned land was "unsuitable and undesirable."

The petition, built around the 17 points, was a four-page, typewritten, single-spaced missive, which detailed the committee's objections.

Norbert L. Cochran was spokesman for the group. He not only read the petition but illustrated his points with a map of the city.

Appearance of the committee served to confuse the board of education which is already divided on the subject of securing a site for the proposed school and athletic field.

Of the five active board members, one—James I. Smith—is openly campaigning for purchase of the Zwicker property. On the other hand, Ray Davis and Carl Leist appear to favor purchase of the John Goeller property.

Mrs. Howard Moore and J. O. Eagleson, remaining two board members, have made no public commitment as to specific property.

Cochran's committee pressed the suggestion that the board buy property in the vicinity of Atwater avenue.

Board members stated they had been considering a purchase in that vicinity for some time, specifically the property belonging to Goeller. However, they

Sewer Pump Plans OK'd

Initial Expansion Move Is Approved

Plans and specifications for the proposed sewage pump station at the intersection of Lancaster pike and Watt street at Hargus Creek were approved Tuesday night by Circleville city council.

The prints which were drawn up by engineers for Burgess and Niple of Columbus, next must be approved by the state health board.

Service Director Joseph Rooney presented the blueprints to council with the explanation that their approval is a preliminary action necessary before other steps can be taken.

He pointed out that this does not mean that Circleville will construct the new pump station. Before that becomes a reality, bids on the contract must be let and the necessary funds appropriated.

WHILE CITY officials refused to estimate the cost of constructing such a building, earlier talks revealed the cost would run approximately $10,000 to $12,000.

Purpose of the station would be to lift the sewage from proposed new lines east of the creek into existing sewage lines on the west side of the creek.

It was estimated about 25 families would benefit on the east side should the city decide to go on with the building. Plans call for a building 10-feet square and 22-feet high, Rooney said.

Yankees Grab Laurels Again In London Olympics

LONDON, Aug. 4—Bill Porter won the Olympic 110-meter hurdles today in record time in an American grand slam finish—the fourth of the present Olympiad.

The Northwestern timber-skimmer was timed in 13.9 seconds in shattering the 12-year-old record set at the Berlin Olympiad by another American, Forrest Towns.

Clyde Scott of Arkansas finished second and equalled the old record of 14.1. Craig Dixon of UCLA finished third and likewise equalled Towns' time.

Porter's victory in the flights gave the United States its eighth gold medal of the track and field competition. The 57 remaining nations share a total of 7.

AMERICA also got six points in the javelin final. Steve Seymour of Los Angeles finished second and Martin Biles of San Francisco sixth.

At this point the United States juggernaut had a total of 286 points with 100 for second place Sweden.

Buyers Striking

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 4—An anti-meat buying movement spread through the Southwest today. Women in Dallas, Corpus Christi, Waco and Fort Worth have joined in the "strike" and will refuse to buy meat during the week of Aug. 9-16. Prices are too high.

'BUGS—A NOBLE FIGURE'

'Buck Passing' Hampering Health In City, Charge

Charges of "buck-passing" and "protecting votes" were hurled Tuesday night during Circleville city council meeting.

Councilmen dressed down Police Chief William F. McCrady, Safety Director John Bolender and Fire Chief Talmer Wise for failing to take proper action on housing hogs and burning chicken feathers within the city limits.

Dr. Edwin L. Montgomery, chairman of council's health committee, opened the seige in his report on hogs within the corporation. He said:

"I don't see why a progressive city like Circleville would permit hogs to be raised inside its boundary. The citizens should not be expected to put up with such a condition."

HE DECLARED the board of health had been notified of the situation but failed to take any action. He requested that the city solicitor be directed to draw up an ordinance to "clean up the hog pens."

Montgomery declared, "responsibility for enforcing the ordinance should be placed in the hands of one man like the chief of police—a noble figure," he added as an afterthought.

"With such a ruling we could pin the blame on one person in case of complaints and this would eliminate any buck passing," he said.

The new councilman said he had received numerous complaints and listed three on Huston avenue from people who are living within "smelling distance" of the porkers.

It was pointed out that while the state has a regulation which says hog pens must not be closer than 300 feet from a house, a city ordinance requires that hog owners clean out pens at least twice a week.

With the hog situation to be regulated in a city ordinance to come up for action at next meeting, council then faced six

C Of C And City Plan Agreement On Paving Job

A resolution to embody a street paving agreement between the city of Circleville and the Chamber of Commerce will be presented for adoption at next meeting of city council.

Tom Gilliland, spokesman for the C of C, appeared before council Tuesday night to obtain an outline of how much the city will do and what is expected of his organization in paving the street in the Chamber's new veterans addition.

It was stated the Chamber must rough grade the roadway, install the curbs and gutters and gravel the roadbed according to city specifications. The city will surface treat the street next year.

Service Director Joseph Rooney told council he had received the city's new traffic lights and expected to place them early next week.

The signals will be located at the intersections Pickaway and Main streets, and Franklin and Mound streets, he revealed.

Purpose was to distribute handbills throughout the county by seeding them from Swift's two-place Cessna.

They hit six county towns and the handbills advertising Wednesday night's free show fluttered down.

Milkers Getting $1.14 More Now Than Year Ago

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4—The state-federal dairy report released today showed producers averaged a June record price of $4.83 cents per hundred pounds of milk, five cents higher than the amount in May and $1.26 above the price one year ago.

That was the price paid for milk with 3.5 percent butterfat at the 21 principal Ohio fluid markets.

For milk delivered to Ohio manufacturing plants, the farmers averaged $4.11 for 3.5 percent milk—six cents more than in May and $1.14 more than last year—to set another June record.

The markets received 212 million pounds of milk, and the producers 191 million pounds during June. This was seven million pounds more than in June 1947 for the markets and 10 million pounds less for the producers, representing a net three million pound loss.

A SIMILAR loss was recorded for dairy products both for the month of June and the first six months of 1948. The seasonal increase from May to June was less than usual for creamery butter and the June production of American and Swiss cheese and evaporated milk was less than in May. Ice cream was the only product to gain and it showed a 23 percent monthly increase in June.

For the six-month period, creamery butter was down nine percent, American cheese, 26 percent; ice cream, seven percent, and evaporated milk was down 14 percent under the first half of 1947.

Council Provides Fund For Job

Circleville city council had only two ordinances to pass on Tuesday night when it amended the annual appropriation for a total of $1,575 for sewers and parking meters.

The first bill called for $1,400 from the general fund for the department of public service for the installation of sewers in the Chamber of Commerce veterans addition.

Council passed the measure 6-0 in the absence of Fred Brown.

Also passed on first reading was an ordinance appropriating $175 from the general fund to the safety department for parking meter repairs and purchasing new parts.

When the measure came up for discussion, Service Director Joseph Rooney told council eight or 10 meters have been damaged on the streets.

SINCE council recently placed the meters under the department of safety, Rooney wanted to know whether it was up to him to oversee the repairs.

Councilmen told Rooney to do the work from funds in his department.

Troops were called out by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, who gave the order on request of Mayor Louis W. Lohrey and Montgomery County Sheriff Ben H. Smith.

Drizzle Helps Guardsmen Maintain Dayton Peace

DAYTON, Aug. 4—A steady drizzle aided National Guard troops in maintaining complete control today over a two-mile "no-man's land" around the Unions Lens Co. here, scene of a 91-day strike by CIO United Electrical Workers.

The Guardsmen, who broke up one milling mob of 400 union sympathizers yesterday with tanks, tear gas and bayonets, had less than 50 spectators to contend with as the plant opened this morning.

Nearly 500 of the normal complement of 658 workers entered the plant which reached 50 percent production yesterday under militia protection.

A half-dozen bedraggled, sodden pickets—the total number permitted by court injunction at the two plant gates—still plodded their weary way, but there was no semblance of disorder.

THE UE apparently planned to go on with a non-surrender policy. A new meeting was scheduled for later today to map strategy in cooperation with the largest UE locals in Dayton, those at Frigidare and Delco.

The Montgomery County CIO Council maintained a strict "hands-off policy" in the dispute, because the UE lost its bargaining agent position in a recent National Labor Relations Board election.

Guardsmen and 100 city police kept spectators from assembling, breaking up many groups of three or more with the blunt command: "Move on!"

A total of 17 persons were taken into custody during yesterday's disorder, the seventh in the three months of the strike. Only two, however, remained jailed overnight.

They were Edward McKellar, 19, and his brother, Charles, 20, accused of resisting officers.

Thousands packed the square and neighboring rooftops to hear the man who was Britain's Public Enemy No. 1 in Palestine until termination of the British mandate.

President's Price Curb Idea Ignored

Republicans Bow To Dixie Filibuster

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—GOP congressional leaders launched their plans today for enacting a mild anti-inflation bill and a weak housing measure before quitting within a week.

The Republicans decided to give up their attempt to pass anti-poll tax legislation during the special session.

The GOP decided on a complete surrender to the Southern Democratic filibuster against the anti-poll tax bill.

Sen. Taft, (R) Ohio, chairman of the Senate GOP policy committee, said that "if things work out smoothly" the special session can adjourn Saturday night. But he said "it looks like we shall go over until next week."

Taft and other Republican leaders of the House and Senate have agreed on a three-point anti-inflation program which ignores President Truman's demands for price, wage and ration controls. It would:

1. Revive Federal Reserve Board restraints on installment buying, with minimum terms on down payments and a time limit on payment of the balance.

2. Authorize the board to hike reserve requirements for member banks by three percentage points on demand deposits and one point on time deposits.

3. Restore the gold reserve requirement to 40 percent against federal reserve notes and 35 percent against federal reserve bank deposits. At present the requirement is 25 percent against each.

REP. WOLCOTT, (R) Mich., chairman of the House banking committee, said his group will meet behind closed doors today to approve the tighter credit bill.

The chief aim of the housing measure will be to stimulate building of rental apartments. The measure will not contain any provisions for public housing.

Red Spy Ring 'Chief' Denies Blonde's Charge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—Nathan Silvermaster refused today to say whether he is or has been a Communist. He admitted naval intelligence once sought his removal from the government, alleging he was a Communist and could not be trusted.

Silvermaster violently attacked and denied the testimony of Elizabeth Bentley, who called him the leader of a Soviet spy ring operating in the United States government and said she believed him to be an agent of the Russian secret police.

Miss Bentley took the witness stand before the House Un-American Activities Committee to repeat her charges against Silvermaster after he refused to say whether he knew the woman.

She said Silvermaster once gave refuge to Earl Browder, one-time Communist Party head in the U. S.

Silvermaster asserted that an admission that he knew Miss Bentley, like an admission that he is or has been a Communist, might incriminate him.

SANTA FE, N. M., Aug. 4—New Mexico authorities today were considering an appeal to the U. S. supreme court against a ruling giving Indians in the state the right to vote.

FULLY ARMED, FULLY EQUIPPED Ohio National Guard units are on the scene at the violent three-month-old Univis Lens strike in Dayton, where scores of clashes have occurred between picketing United Electrical Workers and non-strikers and police. Troops were called out by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, who gave the order on request of Mayor Louis W. Lohrey and Montgomery County Sheriff Ben H. Smith.

Drizzle Helps Guardsmen Maintain Dayton Peace

DAYTON, Aug. 4—A steady drizzle aided National Guard troops in maintaining complete control today over a two-mile "no-man's land" around the Univis Lens Co. here, scene of a 91-day strike by CIO United Electrical Workers.

The Guardsmen, who broke up one milling mob of 400 union sympathizers yesterday with tanks, tear gas and bayonets, had less than 50 spectators to contend with as the plant opened this morning.

Nearly 500 of the normal complement of 658 workers entered the plant which reached 50 percent production yesterday under militia protection.

A half-dozen bedraggled, sodden pickets—the total number permitted by court injunction at the two plant gates—still plodded their weary way, but there was no semblance of disorder.

THE UE apparently planned to go on with a non-surrender policy. A new meeting was scheduled for later today to map strategy in cooperation with the largest UE locals in Dayton, those at Frigidaire and Delco.

The Montgomery County CIO Council maintained a strict "hands-off policy" in the dispute, because the UE lost its bargaining agent position in a recent National Labor Relations Board election.

Guardsmen and 100 city police kept spectators from assembling, breaking up any groups of three or more with the blunt command: "Move on!"

A total of 17 persons were taken into custody during yesterday's disorder, the seventh in the three months of the strike. Only two, however, remained jailed overnight.

They were Edward McKellar, 19, and his brother, Charles, 20, accused of resisting officers.

DETROIT, Aug. 4—The federal government assumed direction today of an inquiry into charges that Michigan Republicans violated the Corrupt Practices Act in collecting campaign funds.

Republicans Bow To Dixie Filibuster

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—GOP congressional leaders launched their plans today for enacting a mild anti-inflation bill and a weak housing measure before quitting within a week.

The Republicans decided to give up their attempt to pass anti-poll tax legislation during the special session.

The GOP decided on a complete surrender to the Southern Democratic filibuster against the anti-poll tax bill.

Sen. Taft, (R) Ohio, chairman of the Senate GOP policy committee, said that "if things work out smoothly" the special session can adjourn Saturday night. But he said "it looks like we shall go over until next week."

Taft and other Republican leaders of the House and Senate have agreed on a three-point anti-inflation program which ignores President Truman's demands for price, wage and ration controls. It would:

1. Revive Federal Reserve Board restraints on installment buying, with minimum terms on down payments and a time limit on payment of the balance.

2. Authorize the board to hike reserve requirements for member banks by three percentage points on demand deposits and one point on time deposits.

3. Restore the gold reserve requirement to 40 percent against federal reserve notes and 35 percent against federal reserve bank deposits. At present the requirement is 25 percent against each.

REP. WOLCOTT, (R) Mich., chairman of the House banking committee, said his group will meet behind closed doors today to approve the tighter credit bill.

The chief aim of the housing measure will be to stimulate building of rental apartments. The measure will not contain any provisions for public housing. (Continued on Page Two)

Red Spy Ring 'Chief' Denies Blonde's Charge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—Nathan Silvermaster refused today to say whether he is or has been a Communist. He admitted naval intelligence once sought his removal from the government, alleging he was a Communist and could not be trusted.

Silvermaster violently attacked and denied the testimony of Elizabeth Bentley, who called him the leader of a Soviet spy ring operating in the United States government and said she believed him to be an agent of the Russian secret police.

Miss Bentley took the witness stand before the House Un-American Activities Committee to repeat her charges against Silvermaster after he refused to say whether he knew the woman.

She said Silvermaster once gave refuge to Earl Browder, one-time Communist Party head in the U. S.

Silvermaster asserted that an admission that he knew Miss Bentley, like an admission that he is or has been a Communist, might incriminate him.

Northend Petition Hits Board Move

According to discussion given by board members, there is $387,000 to be spent in the new building program. The sum is broken down into three categories: $25,000 for land purchase; $312,000 for building and reconditioning; and $50,000 for equipment.

However, the price of the Goeller property exceeds the land purchase budget allotted the board, since Goeller wants $19,500 for a 2.7 acre tract of land and an additional $10,000 for a four-acre plot to the rear of the first property.

The lengthy petition presented by the five-man civic committee contained the following points:

The group objects to the construction of an athletic field in the northend; the Zwicker property is the only area left in Circleville for discriminate homes; an athletic field in that area would disturb the quietness of the present northend, would disturb Berger hospital and cut down values of homes in that area; it suggested the proposed athletic field be constructed in or near Ted Lewis Park or at Pickaway Fairgrounds; the Zwicker property is poor for an elementary school because it would have only one entrance, would require children to cross at state highway (Route 188 on Northridge road); it would be outside the corporation limits and be ineligible for police protection; the new school would not be centrally located, would be too close to High Street school.

Board members pointed out they still would have to plan ahead for an athletic field for the future to replace the field they now have. The present field, according to the educators, will be inadequate for the increasing influx of students.

This means about 10 acres of ground would have to be purchased for the site, making the Goeller property beyond the reach of the board's budget.

However, board members explained, they have a 90-day option on the Zwicker estate at $12,000 for the 15 acres.

"WE JUST haven't enough money to build in such expensive, although ideal, grounds as the Goeller land," explained Leist, board president. "Still, we must use the money allotted to select an adequate site for the building."

Smith, who is chairman of the building and grounds committee of the board, said: "The northend elementary school is only a part of the Circleville school building program. Also to be considered in the discussion is the proposed building of a new industrial arts building and a gymnasium.

"None of the board members is decided as to where the new northend elementary school is to be situated, but we do know we will try to get the most for the least amount of money," he added.

"We're up against it, and will welcome any suggestions on more suitable property within the price range of our budget."

Signers to the petition were Mr. and Mrs. Cochran, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Schroeder, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Markley, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Adkins, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Gail Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Snyder, John B. Gordon, Elizabeth Musser, F. O. Patrick, K. G. Mason, Dr. J. W. Hedges, Eleanor Stocken, James L. Bad Check Case

Pickaway County sheriff's office Wednesday was investigating an $87.50 bogus check reportedly passed Tuesday afternoon at the Brehmer Greenhouse here.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the check was made out to a J. E. Reems and signed by a W. F. Watson on the Third National Bank of Circleville.

Robert Brehmer told the sheriff the man came to the greenhouse to buy a basket of flowers and handed Brehmer the check. Brehmer said the man told him he needed "some extra money" to get along on.

The bad check passer was described as having a ruddy complexion with the tip of his right hand index finger severed.

ing, rural housing, or slum clearance as sought by Mr. Truman. A conference of the entire GOP membership of the Senate was called this morning to determine the means of bringing the Southern filibuster on anti-poll tax legislation to a halt.

Members of the Republican policy committee, which agreed to leave the decision to the vote of the Senate party members had outlined three methods to stop the determined flow of Southern oratory. They were:

To hold day-and-night sessions in an almost futile attempt to wear out the 21 Southern members, to seek a compromise which would allow passage of the bill in the form of a constitutional amendment requiring ratification by three-fourths of the states, or to withdraw the legislation from further Senate consideration.

Fire Destroys Baled Straw

An estimated $186 worth of baled straw was burned Wednesday morning on the Rodocker Bros. farm in Jackson Township.

Noble Barr, on county call for the Circleville fire department, reported that nearly 350 bales of straw in a rick on the farm were destroyed. Barr stayed with the fire about two-and-a-half hours to prevent flames from reaching nearby buildings.

Circleville firemen were called at 10:45 p. m. Tuesday to investigate an auto fire at the intersection of Scioto and High streets. No damage was reported.

on proposed crossing improvements. Officials of the rail firm have promised the city to level its crossings to the street and clean a ditch on Huston avenue which is causing flooding conditions on the George Barnes property.

A request by Boyd Horn for 200-foot of sewers on Barnes avenue and Logan street was referred to the service department for recommendation.

Horn also suggested that the city investigate weeds and signs on city street corners which are causing traffic hazards.

He said in some places it is necessary to drive almost into the middle of the intersection before being able to see in either direction.

Service Director Joseph Rooney asked council to consider erecting a guard rail on the corner of Main and Mingo streets. He said the Alfred Lee property several times had been damaged by cars who missed the corner.

Officials Get New 1948 Cars

Delivery of two 1948 Oldsmobiles—a cruiser car and a station wagon—has been received by Pickaway County sheriff's office and engineer department respectively from the Clifton Motor Sales.

A 1941 Oldsmobile was traded in by the sheriff's office and a 1937 Pontiac was exchanged by the engineer.

The station wagon cost the county $2,343.50. However, Auditor Fred Tipton was not able to disclose the cost of the sheriff's car since the bill has not been received.

council the situation could be rectified by approving more men for the police force.

When asked by Montgomery what Chief McCrady did while his men were on duty, Miller said the chief "does this, that and the other."

However, council was in favor of a better distribution of police men rather than employing more men for the force. Most agreed that the meeting would serve to bring about better law enforcement.

Montgomery was in favor of telling McCrady to carry out his duties as police chief.

However, Adkins said "McCrady won't listen to this council, never has in the past and probably won't in the future—to this or any other council."

It was pointed out that councilmen have no direct powers over the chief of police since he is responsible to the city civil service board, one of the departments to be called into the special meeting.

Northend Petition Hits Board Move

said, the price Goeller set on the property was out of the question.

ACCORDING to discussion given by board members, there is $387,000 to be spent in the new building program. The sum is broken down into three categories: $25,000 for land purchase; $312,000 for building and reconditioning; and $50,000 for equipment.

However, the price of the Goeller property exceeds the land purchase budget allotted the board, since Goeller wants $19,500 for a 2.7 acre tract of land and an additional $10,000 for a four-acre plot to the rear of the first property.

The lengthy petition presented by the five-man civic committee contained the following points:

The group objects to the construction of an athletic field in the northend; the Zwicker property is the only area left in Circleville for disincorporation; an athletic field in that area would disturb the quietness of the present northend, would disturb Berger hospital and cut down values of homes in that area; it suggested the proposed athletic field be constructed in or near Ted Lewis Park or at Pickaway Fairgrounds; the Zwicker property is poor for an elementary school because it would have only one entrance, would require children to cross at state highway (Route 188 on Northridge road); it would be outside the corporation limits and be ineligible for police protection; the new school would not be centrally located, would be too close to High Street school.

Board members pointed out they still would have to plan ahead for an athletic field for the future to replace the field they now have. The present field, according to the educators, will be inadequate for the increasing influx of students.

This means about 10 acres of ground would have to be purchased for the site, making the Goeller property beyond the reach of the board's budget.

However, board members explained, they have a 90-day option on the Zwicker estate at $12,000 for the 15 acres.

"WE JUST haven't enough money to build in such expensive, although ideal, grounds as the Goeller land," explained Leist, board president. "Still, we must use the money allotted to select an adequate site for the building."

Smith, who is chairman of the building and grounds committee of the board, said: "The northend elementary school is only a part of the Circleville school building program. Also to be considered in the discussion is the proposed building of a new industrial arts building and a gymnasium."

"None of the board members is decided as to where the new northend elementary school is to be situated, but we do know we will try to get the most for the least amount of money," he added.

"We're up against it, and will welcome any suggestions on more suitable property within the price range of our budget."

ing, rural housing, or slum clearance as sought by Mr. Truman. A conference of the entire GOP membership of the Senate was called this morning to determine the means of bringing the Southern filibuster on anti-poll tax legislation to a halt.

Members of the Republican policy committee, which agreed to leave the decision to the vote of the Senate party members had outlined three methods to stop the determined flow of Southern oratory. They were:

To hold day-and-night sessions in an almost futile attempt to wear out the 21 Southern members, to seek a compromise which would allow passage of the bill in the form of a constitutional amendment requiring ratification by three-fourths of the states, or to withdraw the legislation from further Senate consideration.

Fire Destroys Baled Straw

An estimated $186 worth of baled straw was burned Wednesday morning on the Rodocker Bros. farm in Jackson Township.

Noble Barr, on county call for the Circleville fire department, reported that nearly 350 bales of straw in a rick on the farm were destroyed. Barr stayed with the fire about two-and-a-half hours to prevent flames from reaching nearby buildings.

Circleville firemen were called at 10:45 p. m. Tuesday to investigate an auto fire at the intersection of Scioto and High streets. No damage was reported.

on proposed crossing improvements. Officials of the rail firm have promised the city to level its crossings to the street and clean a ditch on Huston avenue which is causing flooding conditions on the George Barnes property.

A request by Boyd Horn for 200-foot of sewers on Barnes avenue and Logan street was referred to the service department for recommendation.

Horn also suggested that the city investigate weeds and signs on city street corners which are causing traffic hazards.

He said in some places it is necessary to drive almost into the middle of the intersection before being able to see in either direction.

Service Director Joseph Rooney asked council to consider erecting a guard rail on the corner of Main and Mingo streets. He said the Alfred Lee property several times had been damaged by cars who missed the corner.

Officials Get New 1948 Cars

Delivery of two 1948 Oldsmobiles—a cruiser car and a station wagon—has been received by Pickaway County sheriff's office and engineer department respectively from the Clifton Motor Sales.

A 1941 Oldsmobile was traded in by the sheriff's office and a 1937 Pontiac was exchanged by the engineer.

The station wagon cost the county $2,343.50. However, Auditor Fred Tipton was not able to disclose the cost of the sheriff's car since the bill has not been received.

council the situation could be rectified by approving more men for the police force.

When asked by Montgomery what Chief McCrady did while his men were on duty, Miller said the chief "does this, that and the other."

However, council was in favor of a better distribution of policemen rather than employing more men for the force. Most agreed that the meeting would serve to bring about better law enforcement.

Montgomery was in favor of telling McCrady to carry out his duties as police chief.

However, Adkins said "McCrady won't listen to this council, never has in the past and probably won't in the future—to this or any other council."

It was pointed out that councilmen have no direct powers over the chief of police since he is responsible to the city civil service board, one of the departments to be called into the special meeting.

Gentle echoes of laughter, sobs, shrieks of excitement and cries of derision rock gently back and forth in one of Circleville's most popular buildings in its 60th year as a place of entertainment.

It is the Opera House building at the corner of Court and Pinckney streets which, since its construction in 1888, has been named the Opera House, Grand Opera House and finally the Grand Theatre.

Local historians, who remember when the structure was first planned, relate that the Doctors Blackstone and Miesse were behind the movement, and the building was constructed by the Circleville Opera House Co.

Built primarily for the drama, then so popular, the building has since seen almost every form of entertainment from minstrel shows to burlesque. Included in the long list of varied entertainments were repertoire shows, magic shows, personal appearances of cowboy stars and their favorite horses, amateur shows and various moving pictures from the first soundless "flickers" down to the modern technicolor productions.

In its earlier days, the building was used primarily for the presentation of drama, most of Shakespeare's tragedies having been staged.

MOST FAMOUS tragedian to portray a part on the stage was Tom Keene, who played in "Richard the Eighth."

Switching to suit public taste, the stage became a background for minstrels, the "Aha, Me Proud Beauty" type of melodrama, burlesque, vaudeville and travelling shows of all types.

Magical shows became popular after about the first 20 years of the building's life, and the older Herman, billed as the King of Magicians, graced the stage for his "feats which defy explanation."

About 36 years ago, the Opera House was sold to Walker Baughman, who had been stage manager for the former owners. He renamed the building the Grand Opera House.

Baughman added to the varied number of attractions by running the "flickers" in which William S. Hart, Rudolph Valentino and Tom Mix cut themselves into the nation's memory.

Looking at the Grand Theatre today, it is hard to visualize the former entrance had been facing Court street, with a huge overhanging steel canopy.

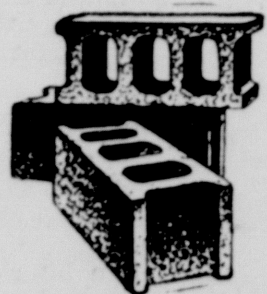

MOST NOSTALGIC of the older "movies" was that a whole evening's entertainment could be had for 28 cents, main floor, and 15 cents in the balcony, with a possible additional five cents doled out for a bag of popcorn.

Now, in its 60th year, the old building still plays host to most Circleville residents, still brings sobs and laughter, and adds them to the echoes created during more than a half century of entertainment.

If every American is thrifty the nation is bound to thrive. Buy U. S. Savings Bonds.

RIPE OLD AGE

ONE hundred and sixteen years is the amazing age claimed by the late Mrs. Millie Stevenson, a Cherokee Indian of Muskogee, Okla. It is not recorded that any evidence other than her own statement was ever offered to prove her age. Equally startling claims occasionally have been advanced by others, most often, it seems, by Southern Negroes professing to have been in mature life during the days of slavery. Most people know or have known of someone who has reached the century mark. Canada some 50 years ago boasted a senator who died at 104. All these records, however, pale before the reasonably well attested case of Thomas Parr, an English country lad born in 1483. He was still going strong, according to the story, in 1635. Then King Charles I, hearing of his amazing age, sent for him to come to court and be seen. He came, but the journey and change of surroundings proved too much for him, and he died. Had he not made the fatal trip, there is no telling what record he might have set.

Stories of extreme age naturally recall the Old Testament patriarchs, headed by Methuselah with a life-span of 969 years. These notables fall far short of the reigns attributed to Babylonian kings before the Flood. If the Babylonian inscriptions are to be believed, one monarch attained the stupendous life-record of 432,000 years. If this be true, why did he ever die?

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

ELECTION as president of the University of Pennsylvania answers the question in many minds as to what would be the next step for Harold E. Stassen. His position among unsuccessful seekers of presidential nomination was unique, in that he had no other political office to fall back on when his candidacy failed.

The turn from politics to education is by no means illogical. National advancement in political affairs depends at least as much on the influence of public education as on that of individuals in political office, high and low. The effects which schools produce on public affairs may seem inordinately slow at times, but they are enduring.

As head of a leading university, Mr. Stassen will have a wide and fertile field for public work. His great appeal to young people, so apparent in his campaign for the presidency, should add to his usefulness in his new position.

July and August have been fittingly described as the months in which a person who opens the door of a car which has been standing in the sun for a while does not get right in. Or if he does, he wishes he hadn't.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The so-called bipartisan foreign policy was designed to achieve a united front at the water's edge. In a word, no matter what differences there may be at home, we present to the world not the appearance but the reality of a united nation. This was possible when only the Democratic and Republican parties, with responsible leadership, were involved. Now that Henry Wallace is a third party to the arrangement and is pursuing Fifth Columnist tactics in the interest of Soviet Russia, such a united front is impossible.

Furthermore, Wallace's psychological effect on Truman is devastating; he upsets the President so as to make him jump hither and yon without reason. The bipartisan foreign policy is therefore falling down and only the decision of John Foster Dulles not to sacrifice the country for politics keeps it alive at all. In this he has the full support of Governor Dewey and Senator Vandenberg.

This country has little appreciation of the services of Dulles in the foreign field. A lawyer, accustomed to self-effacement in the interest of his client, he has, since the San Francisco conference, given himself to the task of preventing partisan politics from wrecking American policy. The difficulty that the Republicans have faced has been that nobody can know what American policy at a given moment may be, and who is operating it.

Much of the criticism of Vandenberg at the Republican convention arose from this, many delegates feeling that he had been reduced to a "Me Too" rubber stamp. But it needs to be made clear that Vandenberg's alternative was to give the impression of sharp division—as sharp as the Wallace-Truman division—which the Republicans generally felt was not to the public interest. Therefore, they went along and Vandenberg took the brunt of whatever criticism came from going along.

This cannot continue, particularly as the general conduct of policy has moved from the State department to the Army. Soviet Russia has employed a tactic of pin-pricks, of irritation, of petty annoyances. Berlin is a case in point. Soviet conduct there was based on the assumption that they could tease us into weariness. While in Western Germany, the United States, Great Britain and France moved on a high level of reconstruction, in Berlin, the Russians simply raised hell. This could lead to war.

The question was, and still is, who wants war? Obviously, the Russians do not yet want war. Actually, all they want are disturbed conditions everywhere in Europe. War would destroy their industrial base. It might also destroy our industrial base, but that is not their problem. They need to establish an adequate capital goods industry to sustain the needs of about a quarter of a billion people. If they can have peace for a sufficient period to achieve this goal, it would keep them a primary nation.

Secondly, they do not want war because they believe—and this is the heart of Marxist dialectics—that inevitably the Communist parties in Europe will sooner or later achieve the proletarian revolution and that the political and economic unity of Europe will be accomplished, under the Communist International, by revolution.

Holding this view, they believe that peace will weaken the capitalists as much as war will, but that peace will strengthen Russia while war will destroy Russia. They want peace but on their terms as far as possible.

NEW YORK—There was a time in the annals of this sinful city when Times Square was celebrated for its restaurants and its theaters but those happy days are long since gone and now the famous crossroads of the world is noted for only one item—signs. For many of the blinking, glittering, bubbling, steaming spectacles that have made the jungle of letters and lights out of the square, the fine Italian hand of Douglas Leigh is responsible.

Mr. Leigh we already have discussed. He is the onetime Navy man who purchased all those blimps a couple of years ago and now sends them around the country to advertise oil, automobiles, tires and bread from the advantageous position of God's blue sky.

There is a new sign in Times Square these days. According to our sources, Mr. Leigh's aforementioned fine hand was in on the original design of this one. If so he seems to have reached the apex of his career. There are no new worlds to conquer, no lost horizons left.

From here on in, anything Mr. Leigh creates will be anticlimatic. He could put a sandwich board on Bing Crosby and send him up and down the Bowery advertising Joe's shoe repair shop, and the customers would yawn. He could lease the top of Mount McKinley for a fireworks display pointing out the virtues of Sinkhole gasoline and the apathy would be immense. For this new one in Times Square is the real thing. This is it.

THE SIGN—WHICH I AM TOLD was not built by Mr. Leigh but merely designed by him originally—consists chiefly of a waterfall. This is no ordinary waterfall. It runs across the roof of a clothing store building from Forty-Fourth to Forty-Fifth streets. Pink and green and yellow lights shine through it, giving it the appearance of an elongated and somewhat frightening pousse cafe. As a matter of cold fact, the word frightening may be the one to describe the entire sign.

All of that difference resulted from South's pass on his first turn, while holding enough to make a sound not-vulnerable overall of the heart opening. This time his pass created an illusion of weakness, so that East reached out to double. SYNOPSIS

Mysterious Rosaleen Cloade will inherit the vast Cloade fortune unless master detective Hercule Poirot can prove that she is not the legal widow of Gordon Cloade, killed in an air raid. Lynn Marchmont returns from the war to find her mother—Rosaleen—dead, her father, Rowley Cloade, a changed man. She meets David Hunter, Rosaleen's scheming brother, who tells her that "nothing is safe."

CHAPTER NINE

THERE were people who lived in such a world—people to whom everything was dangerous. David Hunter was such a person. . . . It was not the world that Lynn had been brought up in—but it was a world that held attraction for her nevertheless.

David said presently in the same low amused voice:

"Are we still on speaking terms?"

"Oh yes."

"Good. And do you still grudge Rosaleen and myself our ill-gotten access to wealth?"

"Yes," said Lynn with spirit.

"Splendid. What are you going to do about it?"

"Buy some wax and practice black magic!"

He laughed.

"Oh no, you won't do that. You aren't one of those who rely on old-fashioned methods. Your methods will be modern and probably very efficient. But you won't win."

"What makes you think there is going to be a fight?"

"You all behave beautifully. It is very amusing."

"Why," said Lynn, in a low tone, "do you hate us?"

Something flickered in those dark unfathomable eyes.

"I couldn't possibly make you understand."

"I think you could," said Lynn.

David was silent for a moment or two, then he asked in a light conversational tone:

"Why are you going to marry Rowley Cloade? He's an oaf."

She said sharply:

"You know nothing about it—or about him. You couldn't begin to know!"

Without any air of changing the conversation David asked:

"What do you think of Rosaleen?"

"She's very lovely."

"What else?"

"She doesn't seem to be enjoying herself."

"Quite right," said David. "Rosaleen's rather stupid. She's scared. She always has been rather scared. She drifts into things and then doesn't know what it's all about. Shall I tell you about Rosaleen?"

"If you like," said Lynn politely.

"I do like. She started by being stage struck and drifted onto the stage. She wasn't any good, of course. She got into a third rate touring company that was going out to South Africa. She liked the sound of South Africa. The company got stranded in Capetown. Then she drifted into marriage with a Government official from Nigeria. She didn't like Nigeria—and I don't think she liked her husband much. If he'd been a hearty sort of fellow who drank and beat her, it would have been all right. But he was rather an intellectual man who kept a large library in the wilds, and who liked to talk metaphysics. So she drifted back to Capetown again. The fellow behaved very well and gave her an adequate allowance. He might have given her a divorce, but again he might not for he was a Catholic; but anyway he rather fortunately died of fever, and Rosaleen got a small pension. Then the war started and she drifted onto a boat for South America. She didn't like South America very much, so she drifted onto another boat and there she met Gordon Cloade and told him all about her sad life. So they got married in New York and lived happily for a fortnight, and a little later he was killed by a bomb and she was left a large house, a lot of expensive jewelry, and an immense income."

"It's nice that the story has such a happy ending," said Lynn.

"Yes," said David Hunter. "Possessing no intellect at all, Rosaleen has always been a lucky girl—which is just as well. Gordon Cloade was a strong old man. He was sixty-two. He might easily have lived for twenty years. He might have lived even longer. That wouldn't have been much fun for Rosaleen, would it? She was twenty-four when she married him. She's only twenty-six now."

"She looks even younger," said Lynn.

David looked across the table. Rosaleen Cloade was crumpling her bread. She looked like a nervous child.

"Yes," he said thoughtfully. "She does. Complete absence of thought, I suppose."

"Poor thing," said Lynn suddenly.

David frowned.

"Why the pity?" he said sharply. "I'll look after Rosaleen."

"I expect you will."

He scowled.

"Anyone who tries to down Rosaleen has got me to deal with! And I know a good many ways of making war—some of them not strictly orthodox."

"Am I going to hear your life history now?" asked Lynn coldly.

"A very abridged edition." He smiled. "When the war broke out I saw no reason why I should fight for England. I'm Irish. But like all the Irish, I like fighting. The Commandos had an irresistible fascination for me. I had some fun but unfortunately I got knocked out with a bad leg wound. Then I went to Canada and did a job of training fellows there. I was at a loose end when I got Rosaleen's wire from New York saying she was getting married! She didn't actually announce that there would be pickings, but I'm quite sharp at reading between the lines. I flew there, tackled myself on to the happy pair and came back with them to London. And now—" he smiled insolently at her, "Home is the sailor, home from the sea. That's you! And the Hunter home from the Hill. What's the matter?"

"Nothing," said Lynn.

She got up with the others. As they went into the drawing room, Rowley said to her: "You seemed to be getting on quite well with David Hunter. What were you talking about?"

"Nothing particular," said Lynn.

David, when we are going back to London? When are we going to America?"

Across the breakfast table, David Hunter gave Rosaleen a quick surprised glance.

"There's no hurry, is there? What's wrong with this place?"

He gave a swift appreciative glance round the room where they were breakfasting. Furrowbank was built on the side of a hill and from the windows one had an unbroken panorama of sleepy English countryside. On the slope of the lawn thousands of daffodils had been planted. They were nearly over now, but a sheet of golden bloom still remained.

Crumbling the toast on her plate, Rosaleen murmured:

"You said we'd go to America—soon. As soon as it could be managed."

"Yes—but actually it isn't managed so easily. There's priority. Neither you nor I have any business reasons to put forward. Things are always difficult after a war."

He felt faintly irritated with himself as he spoke. The reasons he advanced, though genuine enough, had the sound of excuses. He wondered if they sounded that way to the girl who sat opposite him. And why was she suddenly so keen to go to America?

Rosaleen murmured: "You said we'd only be here for a short time. You didn't say we were going to live here."

"What's wrong with Warmley Vale?" said David. "Come now?"

"Nothing. It's them—all of them."

"The Cloades?"

"Yes."

"That's just what I get a kick out of," said David. "I like seeing their smug faces eaten up with envy and malice. Don't grudge me my fun, Rosaleen."

She said in a low troubled voice: "I wish you didn't feel like that. I don't like it."

"Have some spirit, girl. We've been pushed around enough, you and I. The Cloades have lived soft—soft. Lived on big brother Gordon. Little seas on a big flea. I hate their kind—I always have."

I said, "Isn't it a bit ridiculous, saying 'Please' to a steer?" He said, "Not at these prices."

SYNOPSIS
Mysterious Rosaleen Claude will inherit the vast Claude fortune unless master detective Hercule Poirot can prove that she is not the legal widow of Gordon Claude, killed in an air raid. Lynn Marchmont returns from the war to find her mother-in-law, a Claude—in dire distress, her fiancé, Rowley Claude, a changed man. She meets David Hunter, Rosaleen's scheming brother, who tells her that "nothing is safe."

CHAPTER NINE

THERE were people who lived in such a world—people to whom everything was dangerous. David Hunter was such a person. . . . It was not the world that Lynn had been brought up in—but it was a world that held attraction for her nevertheless.

David said presently in the same low amused voice:

"Are we still on speaking terms?"

"Oh yes."

"Good. And do you still grudge Rosaleen and myself our ill-gotten access to wealth?"

"Yes," said Lynn with spirit.

"Splendid. What are you going to do about it?"

"Buy some wax and practice black magic!"

He laughed.

"Oh no, you won't do that. You aren't one of those who rely on old outmoded methods. Your methods will be modern and probably very efficient. But you won't win."

"What makes you think there is going to be a fight? Haven't we all accepted the inevitable?"

"You all behave beautifully. It is very amusing."

"Why," said Lynn, in a low tone, "do you hate us?"

Something flickered in those dark unfathomable eyes.

"I couldn't possibly make you understand."

"I think you could," said Lynn.

David was silent for a moment or two, then he asked in a light conversational tone:

"Why are you going to marry Rowley Claude? He's an oaf."

She said sharply:

"You know nothing about it—or about him. You couldn't begin to know!"

Without any air of changing the conversation David asked:

"What do you think of Rosaleen?"

"She's very lovely."

"What else?"

"She doesn't seem to be enjoying herself."

"Quite right," said David. "Rosaleen's rather stupid. She's scared. She always has been rather scared. She drifts into things and then doesn't know what it's all about. Shall I tell you about Rosaleen?"

"If you like," said Lynn politely.

"I do like. She started by being stage struck and drifted onto the stage. She wasn't any good, of course. She got into a third-rate touring company that was going out to South Africa. She liked the sound of South Africa. The company got stranded in Capetown. Then she drifted into marriage with a Government official from Nigeria. She didn't like Nigeria—and I don't think she liked her husband much. If he'd been a hearty sort of fellow who drank and beat her, it would have been all right. But he was rather an intellectual man who kept a large library in the wilds, and who liked to talk metaphysics. So she drifted back to Capetown again. The fellow behaved very well and gave her an adequate allowance. He might have given her a divorce, but again he might not for he was a Catholic; but anyway he rather fortunately died of fever, and Rosaleen got a small pension. Then the war started and she drifted onto a boat for South America. She didn't like South America very much, so she drifted onto another boat and there she met Gordon Claude and told him all about her sad life. So they got married in New York and lived happily for a fortnight, and a little later he was killed by a bomb and she was left a large house, a lot of expensive jewelry, and an immense income."

"It's nice that the story has such a happy ending," said Lynn.

"Yes," said David Hunter. "Possessing no intellect at all, Rosaleen has always been a lucky girl—which is just as well. Gordon Claude was a strong old man. He was sixty-two. He might easily have lived for twenty years. He might have lived even longer. That wouldn't have been much fun for Rosaleen, would it? She was twenty-four when she married him. She's only twenty-six now."

"She looks even younger," said Lynn.

David looked across the table. Rosaleen Claude was crumpling her handkerchief. She looked like a nervous child.

"Yes," he said thoughtfully. "She does. Complete absence of thought, I suppose."

"Poor thing," said Lynn suddenly.

David frowned.

"Why the pity?" he said sharply. "I'll look after Rosaleen."

"I expect you will."

He scowled.

"Anyone who tries to down Rosaleen has got me to deal with! And I know a good many ways of making war—some of them not strictly orthodox."

"Am I going to hear your life history now?" asked Lynn coldly.

"A very abridged edition." He smiled. "When the war broke out I saw no reason why I should fight for England. I'm Irish. But like all the Irish, I like fighting. The Commandos had an irresistible fascination for me. I had some fun but unfortunately I got knocked out with a bad leg wound. Then I went to Canada and did a job of training fellows there. I was at a loose end when I got to Rosaleen's wire from New York saying she was getting married! She didn't actually announce that there would be pickings, but I'm quite sharp at reading between the lines. I flew there, tucked myself on to the happy pair and came back with them to London. And now—" he smiled insolently at her, "Home is the sailor, home from the sea. That's you! And the Hunter home from the Hill. What's the matter?"

"Nothing," said Lynn.

She got up with the others. As they went into the drawing room, Rowley said to her: "You seemed to be getting on quite well with David Hunter. What were you talking about?"

"Nothing particular," said Lynn.

"David, when are we going back to London? When are we going to America?"

Across the breakfast table, David Hunter gave Rosaleen a quick surprised glance.

"There's no hurry, is there? What's wrong with this place?"

He gave a swift appreciative glance round the room where they were breakfasting. Furrowbank was built on the side of a hill and from the windows one had an unbroken panorama of sleepy English countryside. On the slope of the lawn thousands of daffodils had been planted, and they were nearly over now, but a sheet of golden bloom still remained.

Crumbling the toast on her plate, Rosaleen murmured:

"You said we'd go to America—soon. As soon as it could be managed."

"Yes—but actually it isn't managed so easily. There's priority. Neither you nor I have any business reasons to put forward. Things are always difficult after a war."

He felt faintly irritated with himself as he spoke. The reasons he advanced, though genuine enough, had the sound of excuses. He wondered if they sounded that way to the girl who sat opposite him. And why was she suddenly so keen to go to America?

Rosaleen murmured: "You said we'd only be here for a short time. You didn't say we were going to live here."

"What's wrong with Wamsley Vale—and Furrowbank? Come now?"

"Nothing. It's them—all of them!"

"The Claudes?"

"Yes."

"That's just what I get a kick out of," said David. "I like seeing their smug faces eaten up with envy and malice. Don't grudge me my fun, Rosaleen."

She said in a low troubled voice: "I wish you didn't feel like that. I don't like it."

"Have some spirit, girl. We've been pushed around enough, you and I. The Claudes have lived soft—soft. Lived on big brother Gordon. Little fleas on a big flea. I hate their kind—I always have."

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

Several Massachusetts communities are refraining from eating meat this week; They have no apologies for the long delay.

The Department of Agriculture is of the opinion that meat prices are high because enough people are willing to pay them. This is a horrible thought with a ring of truth.

All I know is that I was on a farm last week and the steers wouldn't budge until the farmer said "please."

I said, "Isn't it a bit ridiculous, saying 'Please' to a steer?" He said, "Not at these prices."

There is little doubt that the price of food eventually will

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—There was a time in the annals of this sinful city when Times Square was celebrated for its restaurants and its theaters but those happy days are long since gone and now the famous crossroads of the world is noted for only one item—signs. For many of the blinking, glittering, bubbling, steaming spectaculars that have made the jungle of letters and lights out of the square, the fine Italian hand of Douglas Leigh is responsible.

Mr. Leigh we already have discussed. He is the one-time Navy man who purchased all those blimping couple of years ago and now sends them around the country to advertise oil, automobiles, tires and bread from the advantageous position of God's blue sky.

There is a new sign in Times Square these days. According to our sources, Mr. Leigh's aforementioned fine hand was in on the original design of this one. If so he seems to have reached the apex of his career. There are no new worlds to conquer, no lost horizons left.

From here on in, anything Mr. Leigh creates will be anticlimatic. He could put a sandwich board on Bing Crosby and send him up and down the Bowery advertising Joe's shoe repair shop, and the customers would yawn. He could lease the top of Mount McKinley for a fireworks display pointing out the virtues of Sinkhole gasoline and the apathy would be immense. For this new one in Times Square is the real thing. This is it.

THE SIGN—WHICH I AM TOLD was not built by Mr. Leigh but merely designed by him originally—consists chiefly of a waterfall. This is no ordinary waterfall. It runs across the roof of a clothing store building from Forty-Fourth to Forty-Fifth streets. Pink and green and yellow lights shine through it, giving it the appearance of an elongated and somewhat frightening pousee cafe. As a matter of cold fact, the word frightening may be the one to describe the entire sign.

To remove a rust stain from a white cotton garment, stretch the stained part over a pan of boiling water and squeeze lemon juice on it. Repeat after a few minutes. This is rather a slow method, but it will not harm delicate cottons and linens. You might also try sprinkling the stain with salt, then squeezing lemon juice on it and putting it in the sun. Add more juice if the stain remains. Rust-removing soap may be used.

Add more juice if the stain remains. Rust-removing soap may be used.

If your waxed floors seem sticky during hot, humid days, you have used too much wax. Next time apply one thin coat, allow it to dry, then add a second thin coat.

In Summer, colognes and toilet waters are good fresheners to appearance and feelings. Sprinkle some in your bath water, splash it on the body after bathing, use it to scent your pillow at night. Always keep a bottle at the office to smooth on your face and forehead.

Cookies or biscuits baked in a pan with deep or high sides often come out of the oven too pale. This is because the high sides "shade" them from the radiant heat. They brown better.

Fisher and Patty Forshey; saxophone solo, by Carl Kreiger; piano solos by Caroline Forshey and Rosemary Fisher. A play, "Trip to the Dentist," enacted by Rosemary Fisher, Carl Kreiger and Joan McCarty, closed the program.

ELECTION YEAR TACTICS?

G-Men Irked As Panels Air Commie Spy Cases

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—Behind the spectacular Capitol Hill testimony of Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley, self-confessed former Communist spy, several extremely bitter battles are raging in Washington today.

Some of them, of course, are the inevitable results of staging such a dramatic expose during an election year.

For instance, already a couple of jurisdictional rows have sprung up between Senate and House investigating committees to see who gets the key witnesses first. This is understandable enough. With such magnificent campaign publicity available, everybody wants to get in on the act.

Also to be expected is the squabble which has sprung up between Democrats and Republicans, the former charging the latter with staging the show to blacken the administration and the latter pooh-poohing any such an idea. That, too, is typical of what happens in event of any sort of election-year expose.

NOT SO LIGHTLY dismissed, however, is the frustrated rage and fury of such organizations as the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the comparatively youthful Counter-Intelligence Agency. Whether their anger is justified is something which may, even yet, be brought out into the open and also become a campaign issue.

At the moment, spokesmen for the FBI and the CIA are remaining officially silent—although they will talk anonymously to reporters—simply because of the powerful appropriations club which Capitol Hill holds over their heads.

A good many G-Men are infuriated because they feel that the congressional hearings are frittering away futilely the results of weeks, months and even years of heart-breaking and often quite dangerous work on their part.

This much of their case is unquestioned: Congressional committee members admit that much of the material brought out in testimony at the hearings was provided by the FBI.

Nevertheless, the G-Men say it already has been presented to grand juries, and the possibility of getting many—if any—convictions out of it is remote indeed. They claim congressional committees knew in advance that they probably couldn't even get criminal charges filed in most cases.

Basis of their complaint is their belief that some of the individuals involved are guilty of actual espionage—and that, left alone, the FBI eventually could have piled up the evidence to prove it.

NOW THEY say it will be next to impossible, since the individuals themselves are alerted and will lay low, and the various borderline pinks who have served as informers will be frightened into complete silence. "How could a police force clean up a city," one Department of Justice employee asked, "if the city council suddenly demanded police records and called in all the stool-pigeons for public testimony? Figure it out for yourself!"

Daniels Awaits Plea On Triple Murder Writ

MANSFIELD, Aug. 4—Confessed Killer Robert Murl Daniels will be arraigned today on a first-degree murder indictment charging him with the triple slaying July 21 of the John Niebel family.

A Richland County grand jury returned three separate indictments against the 24-year-old Columbus ex-convict yesterday afternoon accusing him with the murders of John Niebel, the farm superintendent of the Mansfield reformatory, Mrs. Noland Niebel and their 21-year-old daughter, Phyllis.

Daniels, at the time of his capture in a road-block gun battle near Van Wert in which his partner-in-crime, John C. West, was killed by police gunfire, boasted he wanted "credit" for the Niebel slayings. The nude bodies of the family were found in a rain-soaked cornfield.

In addition to the Niebel slayings, Daniels confessed participation in the slayings of Earl C. Ambrose, Columbus tavern owner; and the near-Tiffin shootings of James Smith, 25-year-old farmer, and Orville Taylor, 28-year-old Niles, Mich., truck driver.

Livestock Mart Zooms Upward

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4—Columbus livestock markets were watched closely today to see if prices would top yesterday's all-time highs.

Following a general trend in other markets, the Producers Livestock Cooperative Association reported choice steers set a record when they brought $39.75 a hundredweight.

Association officials pointed out that only a few steers brought that top price. Hog prices equalled the all-time mark at both producers and at the Columbus Packing Co. The price was $31 a hundred.

Police Chief Raps Own Department

SANDUSKY, Aug. 4—Sandusky Police Chief Russell A. Thom doesn't believe in half-way measures.

Thom blasted his own department last night in a communication to the city commission in which he said he definitely was not satisfied with present enforcement conditions.

Thom said his department should have 58 men, as compared with the present 24, more equipment, proper training methods and more space.

Lonesome Dog Awaits Master

BOSTON, Aug. 4—"The lonesome dog" in New England was waiting today at Angell Memorial hospital for arrival of his master.

Meanwhile, telegrams and long distance telephone calls were being made in an effort to locate the master of the dog, "Champ," a German shepherd, wearing a license tag issued in Fayetteville, N. C.

"Champ" has been at the animal hospital for a month since he was picked up in Brookline. The tag bore the name of Robert Andrews.

Premier Stalin, the Kremlin night-shift worker, once more must decide if the world is to get more jitters or a calm spell in the East-West struggle over the German cockpit.

Stalin's position is most unique in history. The ruler of the largest land mass on the globe is defied by international Communists and damned by their enemies.

Western leaders generally believe that a few words from him could halt many crises—the "starvation blockade" of Berlin, the civil war in Greece, the bleakness in Austria.

In the Berlin crisis the Russian leader presumably must make his decision after a thorough study on confidential reports.

To make sure that Stalin is not relying on possibly misleading reports of his own men, the West sent three top American, British and French emissaries to Moscow to clarify the Western stand.

In a dangerous situation, Stalin always gets the problem dumped in his lap—and it usually ends up that the West makes a pilgrimage to Moscow, the Communist fountain.

THE WEST has made it as clear as possible that it will not withdraw from Berlin. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. military governor in Germany, also says there is no plan to shelve the intended creation of a West German government because of possible four-power talks resulting from Moscow negotiation. Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in his recent note rejected any "conditions" preliminary to possible four-power talks. The Berlin siege may be termed a "condition," but the Russians can find ways to save face on this issue if they want to negotiate.

Here are some things Stalin must consider in assessing the present impasse:

1. If he follows a do-nothing policy the Western aerial supply lift to Berlin will increase. This is a spectacular show of Western Allied air might.
2. German Communist strikes in Germany have been set back by the Russian starvation tactics in Berlin. Dispatches from Germany say the Communist appeal is at its lowest now, and anti-Russian German nationalism is rising.
3. Economic conditions in the Soviet zone of Germany are not being aided by the Berlin siege since the West has cut off shipments.
4. Western Berliners generally have snubbed the Soviet offer to feed them.

Every ship, even luxury liners, carries its own rats. To make sure they don't get ashore to spread disease, rat guards, large metal disks, must be put on all lines extending from the ship to the dock, according to international law.

SENATE DRONES, SLEEPS

Hollywood's Filibusterer Differs From Real Thing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—Nowadays Hollywood seems to be catching heck pretty regularly from Capitol Hill, but one of the film capital's major sins, committed many years ago, still has gone unpunished.

During the presentation of the self-admitted epic entitled "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," it will be recalled that touse-haired James Stewart, in the title role, overcame his native shyness long enough to stage a one-man filibuster.

And what a filibuster! From the moment he arose to speak, the word spread like wildfire through Capitol corridors (the celluloid ones, that is), flicking out to the far reaches of the city and the country.

Legislators, lobbyists and laymen jammed the building, hanging on to his every word, from beginning to end. And, of course, the end involved an unscrupulous old politician shooting himself in the cloakroom—a thing which hardly ever happens anymore, plague take it!—and a clutch close up of Mr. Stewart and his blonde secretary.

WE NOW WILL shift the scene to an actual filibuster (despite the usual denials from participants) underway during recent days in the Senate over certain civil rights legislation.

Due to disagreement over the parliamentary procedure involved, no one could be quite objectively certain when the thing actually started, although a sort of semi-arbitrary decision finally was reached.

Once the filibuster was underway the word spread like molasses on a frosty morning. In a matter of hours, most of the senators knew about it.

By next morning there was a rumor abroad in the House of Representatives that something or other was afoot in the other end of the building. There was talk of adjournment to investigate, but nothing came of it.

Two days later, the double doors leading from the Senate press gallery to the correspondents' work room at the rear swung open momentarily and the chatter of happy young reporters at work flowed out into the August chamber below. Quickly a gallery employee rushed out.

"Quiet!" he hissed, "the senators are sleeping!"

The chastened reporters took a quick look, then chided the government employee for his faulty grammar and exaggerated report. Only one senator was sleeping. The other one was filibustering.

STUBBORNLY the worker stuck to his guns, claiming the filibustering senator was asleep on his feet, and there was some tendency to agree with him since there was only a faint drone from the Senate floor.

However, an investigating committee with cupped ears finally reported that he seemed to be speaking, not snoring.

That was the actual filibuster scene. There was a limit to how much even the highest-salaried legislators in the land could take, and approximately a million and a half dollars worth of them had walked out!

France Grounds Big Seaplanes

PARIS, Aug. 4—Air France announced today that it is grounding all seaplanes of the type that disappeared over the Atlantic Saturday with 52 persons on board.

Airline officials also said that traffic on the Martinique-Bordeaux run, on which the plane was flying when it vanished, has been discontinued.

Meanwhile, an air, sea, and submarine search failed to disclose any sign of the fate of the huge 73-ton, six engine, Latécoere 631 flying boat.

In the past 30 years, the number of allotments Navy personnel have asked the Navy to pay out of their salaries has increased from 44,541 to 802,270.

County Engineer Wins His Wings

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4—Cuyahoga County Engineer Albert S. Porter knows that an airplane is the best means of drawing a straight line between two cities.

So Porter, who began working for a pilot's license only two months ago, almost set a record at Aero-Ways, Inc., at Cleveland airport when he won his license yesterday.

Porter also became one of the first flying officials in Cleveland political history. He said he expected to find use for his flying training in attending official meetings in other cities.

SENATE DRONES, SLEEPS

Hollywood's Filibusterer Differs From Real Thing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—Nowadays Hollywood seems to be catching heck pretty regularly from Capitol Hill, but one of the film capital's major sins, committed many years ago, still has gone unpunished.

During the presentation of the self-admitted epic entitled "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," it will be recalled that touse-haired James Stewart, in the title role, overcame his native shyness long enough to stage a one-man filibuster.

And what a filibuster! From the moment he arose to speak, the word spread like wildfire through Capitol corridors (the celluloid ones, that is), flicking out to the far reaches of the city and the country.

Legislators, lobbyists and laymen jammed the building, hanging on to his every word, from beginning to end. And, of course, the end involved an unscrupulous old politician shooting himself in the cloakroom—a thing which hardly ever happens anymore, plague take it!—and a clutch close-up of Mr. Stewart and his blonde secretary.

WE NOW WILL shift the scene to an actual filibuster (despite the usual denials from participants) underway during recent days in the Senate over certain civil rights legislation.

Due to disagreement over the parliamentary procedure involved, no one could be quite objectively certain when the thing actually started, although a sort

Council Blocks Garbage Project

CANTON, Aug. 4—Canton officially is in the garbage disposal business but the question is: "Who is going to pay for it?"

The city began disposing of its own garbage last Tuesday but three city councilmen last night blocked passage of a bill allocating $15,000 to pay for the initial cost of the city's new venture.

A motion to bring the appropriation bill up for a third reading and final vote was defeated when proponents of the measure were able to muster only 10 votes of a required 11.

of semi-arbitrary decision finally was reached.

Once the filibuster was underway the word spread like molasses on a frosty morning. In a matter of hours, most of the senators knew about it.

By next morning there was a rumor abroad in the House of Representatives that something or other was afoot in the other end of the building. There was talk of adjournment to investigate, but nothing came of it.

Two days later, the double doors leading from the Senate press gallery to the correspondents' work room at the rear swung open momentarily and the chatter of happy young reporters at work flowed out into the August chamber below. Quickly a gallery employee rushed out.

"Quiet!" he hissed, "the senators are sleeping!"

The chastened reporters took a quick look, then chided the government employee for his faulty grammar and exaggerated report. Only one senator was sleeping. The other one was filibustering.

STUBBORNLY the worker stuck to his guns, claiming the filibustering senator was asleep on his feet, and there was some tendency to agree with him since there was only a faint drone from the Senate floor. However, an investigating committee with cupped ears finally reported that he seemed to be speaking, not snoring.

That was the actual filibuster scene. There was a limit to how much even the highest-salaried legislators in the land could take, and approximately a million and a half dollars worth of them had walked out!

Obituary

Mrs. Grace Ruth Foreman was the daughter of William and Alvina Grove. She was born in Jackson Township, Pickaway Co., Ohio, on Dec. 23rd, 1895. She departed this life in Ashville, Ohio, on July 28, 1948, aged 52 years, 7 months and 5 days. Grace spent her young life on the farm in Jackson Township. On August 16, 1913, she was united in marriage with Mr. Lewis E. Foreman. To this union were born two children, William and Lester. She leaves to mourn her departure, her husband and two sons, William of Ashville and Lester of Columbus, Ohio, two grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. Ollie Butler of Powell, Ohio. Early in youth she united with the Evangelical United Brethren Church of Robinson, Ohio, where she was a member at the time of her death. She also was a member of the Eastern Star Lodge and the Daughters of Union Veterans of Circleville, Ohio. Grace was a good friend and neighbor. A kind good wife and mother and will be greatly missed in the home and in Ashville. Mother is gone but not forgotten. Never will her memory fade. Sweetest thoughts will ever linger. Around the hearth where she is laid. We will miss thee, from our home. Mother. We will miss thee from the place; A shadow of her home is cast. And we miss the sunshine of thy face. We miss thy kind and smiling hand. Thy kind and earnest care. Our home is dark without thee. We miss thee everywhere.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for their kind help and sympathy extended to us during the sickness and the death of our wife and mother, and to all who contributed flowers and to the Minister and the Mortician for their services, and to all who helped in any way. L. E. Foreman and Sons. We wish to extend sincere and heartfelt thanks to our neighbors, friends and relatives for kindness and their expressions of sympathy, and to all who contributed flowers and to the Minister and the Mortician for their services, and to all who helped in any way. L. E. Foreman and Sons.

Tribe Up In First Place Now

Old Satchel Paige Gets Win Credit

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—The Cleveland Indians took possession of first place in the American League today—the third team to occupy the post in three days.

Last night the Philadelphia Athletics tumbled from first to fourth place, the same to the Boston Red Sox took Sunday.

Dick Fowler, the A's ace pitcher, had a one-hitter through eight innings, but the Chicago White Sox bunched two hits in the ninth to tie the score at one-all.

In the tenth, Fowler issued two successive walks and Pinch-Hitter Jack Wallaesa drilled a single to left for the ball game, 2 to 1. It was Chicago's fourth hit.

LEROY (Satchel) Paige, won his first game as a major league starting pitcher to move Cleveland into first place. Old Satchel pitched seven innings against Washington. He was aided by Catcher Jim Hegan's sixth-frame homer. Ed Klieban took over for Paige in the eighth. The Indians won, 5 to 3.

Right behind the Tribe, are the New York Yankees, last year's world champions. New York unleashed a 12-hit, three-run bombardment against Detroit to win behind Frank Shea's four-hitter, 15 to 3.

George McQuinn, Tommy Henrich, and Yogi Berra led the attack against four Tiger hurlers with homerun blasts. Tiger Outfielder Vic Wertz hit a homer in the second inning.

The Boston Red Sox also scored 15 runs on 12 hits in defeating the St. Louis Browns, 15 to 8. Boston, now sporting a third-place mark of .592, banded six Brownie hurlers around, including among their hits homeruns by Stan Spence and Ted Williams.

However, the Red Sox suffered a jolt when Jack Kramer suffered a shoulder injury in the third inning. It was not immediately determined how long Kramer will be out.

In the National League, the Boston Braves continued to slip. Billy Southworth's charges lost their third straight game, a 5-to-4 setback to the Cincinnati Reds.

Boston's lead was shaved to 4½ games and the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers are but three games behind in the lost column.

JOHNNY Sain, Brave ace with 13 wins, was knocked from the box in the fourth. Nelson Potter, American League cast-off, replaced Sain and retired 14 consecutive batters before yielding a run in the eighth.

Herman Wehmeier, although relieved by Harry Gumbert in the eighth, received credit for the win, his eighth, and third over Boston this season.

Indianapolis '9' Still Collecting AA Loop Wins

By International News Service
Indianapolis continued to ride a sustained winning streak for all it was worth today, but for the first time in a week the Tribe failed to gain ground in the American Association.

The Terrible Tribesmen slaughtered St. Paul, 7 to 4, for their eighth victory in a row and their 13th win in 14 games.

However, Milwaukee finally ended a 12-game losing streak, defeating Louisville, 8 to 3, on a well-pitched game by Glenn Elliott. Thus the second placers hung on, 10½ contests behind leading Indianapolis.

Meanwhile, Minneapolis sprinted into a third place tie with St. Paul by defeating Columbus, 7 to 6.

Elbie Fletcher of the Millers hit a three-run homer and a single to drive in five runs.

Toledo defeated Kansas City, 6 to 4, as Rookie Sal Madrid drove in four tallies with two doubles.

Mexican Champ Loser In Bout

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4—Mexico's lightweight champion found it tough going in Los Angeles.

Champ Tony Mar suffered a technical knockout last night at the hands of Tommy Campbell of Rock Island, Ill., before 4,000 fans at Olympic Auditorium. The Illinois battler weighed 137 and his opponent 134½.

FAR FROM the madding (bleacher) crowd, Branch Rickey, Brooklyn Dodgers president, tries out a new motor plow he purchased in Charleston, W. Va., for his Maryland farm. (International)

Club Golf Meet Dates, Procedure Given Shakeup

The Pickaway Country Club championship golf tourney, which was to have been played as a medalist contest last Sunday, has been postponed until next Sunday and the type of play has been changed.

According to Eddie Amey, club manager, the new tournament is to be run off as match play and will extend into September. He said the match play setup did not call for doubling up.

Amey said also the qualifying round deadline had been set for until Wednesday evening, but that the original 16 low qualifiers rule for tournament competition would still apply.

Phils Sell Verban To Chicago Cubs

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4—Emil Verban, 31-year-old Phillies' second baseman, has been sold to the Chicago Cubs for an undisclosed sum believed in excess of $10,000.

The sale was reported to be part of a "waiver" deal in which the Phillies will get either a pitcher or catcher in exchange from the Bruins. Verban, All-Star game starter a year ago, hurt his leg in Spring training this season, and gave way to Rookie Gran Hamner.

Brown Satisfied With Showing Of Pro Gridders

BOWLING GREEN, Aug. 4—Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns apparently was a satisfied man today after watching his All-America Conference champs go through their first scrimmage.

Brown sent his boys through the workout yesterday primarily because he wanted to look over three players who depart for the Chicago camp of the college all-stars tomorrow.

With three sets of halfbacks working with Quarterback Otto Graham, three touchdowns were scored against a defensive unit composed of rookies.

All were made on running plays with Marion Motley, Tom Colella and Bob Brugge doing the scoring.

There was the usual amount of ragged play and missed assignments, but there were also some pieces of excellent work, especially by "Dub" Jones, the six-foot four-inch halfback from Brooklyn.

The scrimmage also resulted in an injury to Paul Goll which may cost him whatever chances he had of staying with the team. Goll suffered a cut four inches long and an inch wide on the back of his left leg. The slash required eight stitches.

Big Return Seen At Randall

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4—A new high was posted yesterday at suburban Randall Park as Lester Mack and Vinita Dixie fanned the rolls of their dual-pool players by returning $321 for $2.

Lester Mack, a six-year-old making his first start of 1948, went off at only 3 to 1 in the first of those two successive maiden races, almost equally favored with Justice L. B.

However, Vinita Dixie sprinted as a member of the 7-1 para-mutuel field in the second, for juveniles, and there were few double bettors brave enough to try the combination.

Wiener Roast Due Thursday

Cowboys softball team annexed the Class AA softball league leadership at Ted Lewis Park playground Tuesday by beating the Indians 3-2.

Cowboy Pitcher Bradley allowed but four hits in the game, while his team collected six safeties from Indian Pitcher Ted Mogan.

Other activities at the park Tuesday included volleyball league games, in which the Park Pros swamped Huffer's Puffers 11-0 in the first tilt, and the Mighty Mice defeated the Sealls Swishers 22-20 in the final contest.

Wednesday's activities at the ground are to include a hardball game between the Athletics and Giants, a girls' softball game between the Yellow Jackets and Panthers, checkers tournament and jacks tournament.

SPECIAL feature of the week at the park is set for Thursday noon, when a wiener roast will be given the more than 150 youngsters expected to attend.

Also on the Thursday bill is a Class AA softball game between the Roundtowners and Mud Hens, pepper tournament, and another volleyball league twin bill.

The first of the twin volleyball bill is to be a contest between the Pros and the Puffers, followed by a game between the Mighty Mice and Sealls.

Friday's special feature is to be a peanut hunt at 3 p. m., when the youngsters will scout over the park area in search of hidden peanuts.

Other Friday events planned include a "Junior World Series" softball game between the Tigers and Giants, a girls' handicraft class called by Mrs. John Heiskell, a hopscotch tourney and a free play period.

Military Manpower Committee To Be Formed In County

Thursday Conference Scheduled

8 Civic Groups Asked To Meet

A move to consolidate community support for the Army and Air Force voluntary enlistment program will get underway here Thursday in a meeting at 7 p. m. in the Veterans of Foreign Wars home on North Court street.

The announcement was made jointly Wednesday by M-Sgt. William Hull and S-Sgt. Lloyd Williams, Army recruiters in this area.

Aim of the meeting is to organize a local Military Manpower Committee to be made up of citizens with the backing of Circleville service and civic groups.

Capt. Thomas Madigan of the Columbus recruiting area will be on hand to explain the purpose behind the project to unify local citizens to build up Army and Air Force active manpower.

THE CINCINNATI committee will include representatives of eight local organizations with the assistance of neighbor community leaders.

Invited to attend from Circleville are the American Legion and Auxiliary, VFW, Elks, Eagles, Moose, Kiwanis, Rotary and Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The committee here will become a part of national program developed jointly by the Army and Air Force recruiting service and the national officers of six patriotic and fraternal organizations.

Registration for this nation's first peacetime draft will begin Aug. 30, for all men 18 through 25. Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey announced.

Meanwhile, 18-year-olds have been swamping recruiting posts throughout the country to take advantage of the one-year enlistment open to them rather than be drafted and serve 21 months. Actual drafting of men who register according to age is not expected to begin before mid-September.

Cyclists Book Sunday Tour

Between 400 and 500 motorcycles are expected at the Buckeye Motorcycle Club Gypsy tour at Gold Cliff Park Sunday afternoon.

Ed Myers, park manager, said Wednesday the Columbus club and its affiliated clubs from all over Ohio would assemble at the viaduct bridge in Columbus at 10 a. m. Sunday.

Principal attractions of the tour are to be field contests for the riders, which are to include barrel rolling and short races.

East Liverpool To Keep Mayor

EAST LIVERPOOL, Aug. 4.—East Liverpool will continue to have a mayoral form of municipal government.

The pottery city rejected a proposed change to a charter form yesterday by a vote of 2,129 to 1,793.

Only 4,200 of the city's 10,100 qualified electors voted, although the proposed switch had been the subject of a torrid campaign.

The charter movement was sponsored by the City Manager Charter Association.

General Receives Rousing Sendoff

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 4.—Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, commander of the famed U. S. Eighth Army, left Japan by steamer today to return to the United States for retirement.

Ending three years as chief of the American occupation forces in Japan, the general sailed from Yokohama after a farewell ceremony at the docks.

A large crowd of dignitaries, including Mrs. Douglas MacArthur, bade him farewell. Also present to see him off were hundreds of Japanese.

Eichelberger was mounting the gangplank when he heard a little, white-clad jirricksha coolie shout: "Mister Eichel! Mister Eichel!"

The general turned and looked down at the coolie who was clutching an autographed picture of Eichelberger and whose eyes were brimming with tears.

Americans are eating 25 percent more food than they did before World War II. There are, however, 12,000,000 more people to do the eating than there were in 1940.

Silo Sleuths Are Maintained By Ag Bureau

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—There are sleuths in the silos these days, corny as it may seem to fans of the sophisticated detective story.

The Agriculture department, which by no stretch of the imagination can be considered as a cloak and dagger outfit, brought this to light while making a pitch for the greater recognition of its CIB.

The CIB—not to be confused with Scotland Yard's famous Criminal Investigation Division—is the Compliance and Investigation Branch of the department's production and marketing administration.

It polices agricultural programs which, the department estimates, run into annual expenditures of hundreds of millions of dollars.

The department points out that it deals with gamblers, racketeers and just plain chisellers whose operations sometimes reach into such exotic places as Tientsin, Shanghai and Hong Kong.

The department says: "The collection of evidence is likely to lead investigators into all sorts of places, including dairy barns, as was the case when the CIB was called upon to investigate frauds connected with wartime subsidies paid to milk producers."

"The big job of the CIB is helping other branches weed out program irregularities."

2 Local Fliers Receive Permits

Two Circleville men have received their "diplomas" as private fliers at nearby Thomas airport.

Bob Swift, manager and flight instructor at the airfield, said that Paul L. Weaver and John A. Mader had been graduated from the local flying school.

Several other Pickaway County men are rounding out their basic instruction, Swift said, and should receive their permits before snow flies.

Woman Arrested For Erasing Age

WOOSTER, Aug. 4.—Miss Rhonda J. Kinney of Monroe Falls, believes a woman's age is her own secret, no matter what the law says.

Miss Kinney was arrested in Wooster when it was discovered, on a routine traffic check, that she had erased her age and birth date from her driver's license.

Charged with altering her license, Miss Kinney sobbed before Justice O. C. Franks: "I'd rather never drive again than tell my age."

The sympathetic judge fined her $10 and costs, but suspended the fine.

Have A Pay Raise On Us Solons Say

PAINESVILLE, Aug. 4.—Painesville councilmen can justifiably point with pride today to the fact that they really have the best interests of the people at heart.

During debate yesterday on a proposed 14-cent hourly increase for city employees, councilmen began a discussion on cutting their own salaries to aid the general fund.

City Solicitor Seth Paulin cut the discussion short, however, by reminding the solons that they have no right to increase or diminish their salaries during a term of office.

Have A Pay Raise On Us Solons Say

PAINESVILLE, Aug. 4.—Painesville councilmen can justifiably point with pride today to the fact that they really have the best interests of the people at heart.

During debate yesterday on a proposed 14-cent hourly increase for city employees, councilmen began a discussion on cutting their own salaries to aid the general fund.

City Solicitor Seth Paulin cut the discussion short, however, by reminding the solons that they have no right to increase or diminish their salaries during a term of office.

"OH, LOOK, JOHN . . . here's a pleasant surprise!"

A Double-Wall SPEED QUEEN Costs only $99.50

Most washers have just a single wall. The Speed Queen, however, has a double wall—flat bottom porcelain tub. This double-wall construction is sturdier—protects the porcelain tub — keeps the water piping hot. And the bowl-shaped tub gets clothes cleaner, faster.

Do you want a pleasant surprise? Then check Speed Queen prices. Let us show you (1) how a Speed Queen saves you money; (2) how it washes faster and cleaner; (3) why it lasts years longer; (4) why upkeep cost is virtually nothing; and (5) why over 1 1/2 million Speed Queen users are so thoroughly satisfied with their Speed Queens.
